Demand for military hospital grows as UK's only war ward struggles with casualties Demand for a dedicated military hospital grew yesterday amid an overcrowding crisis at the country's only ward set aside for soldiers. MPs and veterans spoke out as rising casualty rates put intolerable pressure on the single NHS ward at Selly Oak Hospital, Birmingham. It has just 14 beds - yet, in the last month alone, 145 personnel have been flown back from Afghanistan and Iraq for treatment.
The dedicated "military-managed" ward, with uniformed military nurses working alongside NHS staff, was set up before Christmas following complaints from soldiers who found themselves on ordinary wards, isolated from their comrades and surrounded by civilians with no understanding of the terrors of war. But now officials admit the unit is too small for the numbers of battlefield casualties, and the overflow has had to be treated on ordinary mixed NHS wards.

'Police have lost control of streets' says ex cop A retired Kingston cop claims the Met has lost control of the capital's streets. The former detective spoke out during a television debate about the death of a man who was killed during a row over a chocolate bar. Evren Anil died in hospital this week days after an altercation with youths in Crystal Palace. The ex-policeman, who spent years pounding the capital's streets, told the BBC that violent crime was way out of control. And unlike Detective Chief Inspector Cliff Lyons - the man in charge of the investigation into Evren's death who said people were right to challenge yobbish behaviour - he said the problem was now too big for ordinary people to tackle.
He said he regularly saw incidents of antisocial behaviour in Kingston which could easily spill over into something more serious. "If you're fit and big enough to take these people on then maybe you should," he said, "But most people aren't and they should be aware of the dangers. "The police have lost control of the streets. I see things every day where older people who perhaps don't realise how things can escalate tut at people when they shouldn't."

Let's not cower from the hard truth about race and IQ The debate over racial differences in IQ represents perhaps the greatest scientific controversy of the past half-century. The facts are not in serious dispute: blacks score, on average, significantly lower than whites in IQ tests in the United States, Britain and beyond. Some argue that the only plausible response is to accept that blacks are naturally less intelligent than whites, a view that causes outrage among equal rights campaigners. But is there an alternative explanation for these puzzling statistics and what would it mean if there were not?
All too often the liberal establishment has stifled debate on the issue by pretending that it does not exist. It is asserted, for example, that the concept of intelligence is culturally relative. Even if this is (relatively) true, it does not alter the fact that the kind of intelligence revealed by IQ tests is crucial to one's prospects in the modern world. It hardly helps the cause of racial equality to argue that, although blacks do worse at IQ tests, they have the kind of intelligence that is useful in preindustrial societies.
The reluctance of liberals to engage in real debate has left the impression that there is an inconvenient truth about IQ differences that is being suppressed by political correctness. This has bolstered the phenomenon of black skin being used subconsciously as an information-bearing trait, so that blacks are judged as a group rather than as individuals. This has prejudiced blacks in finding jobs and amounts to de facto affirmative action for whites.

Warden arrested after he confiscates boy's bicycle A Park warden has been beaten up and arrested after his attempts to control antisocial behaviour in Great Hollands. The warden for the Wooden Hill recreation ground aims to prevent disorder breaking out and frequently encounters rowdy teenagers disturbing other visitors. The situation reached breaking point on Wednesday last week when one teenager was caught urinating into the paddling pool. The warden confiscated his bicycle and said his parents could come and collect it. But when police were informed they arrested the warden on suspicion of theft. This came less than two weeks after the warden called police saying he had been assaulted and racially abused by youngsters.

Judges told: Don't lock up yobs who flout Asbos A new row over yob violence broke out today as judges and magistrates were told that juveniles who flout Asbos should not be sent to jail. Proposals published today by the Government's Sentencing Advisory Panel state that custody should only be used when it is "unavoidable" - even if orders are breached repeatedly. It says that young offenders should first be considered for community sentence or a fine, partly because of legislation stating that the courts must pay regard to juveniles' welfare when passing sentence. In further advice, it also says that, in the few cases where detention is necessary, it should usually be from four months to no more than 12 months - only half the maximum allowed under the law. The recommendations-will raise new questions about the effectiveness of Asbos, the Government's flagship scheme for tackling anti-social behaviour.

Thoughts and reflections....

by Harry Mullin

The Daily Express tells us Prince Charles only has 136 staff to look after him! How difficult life must be for the poor Prince eh? The Lib-Lab-Con should be ashamed subjecting him to such awful hardship!

Overseas call centres - China and Vietnam are scabbing the British Working class. We are seeing factory after factory closing down in Britain, and causing even more unemployment, and the poverty that goes with that unhappy state. Many of these "British" capitalists have moved their call centre operations overseas. Why? Because the left-wing governments in these lands are adopting class cooperation with our Capitalist class and only pay their workers (doing a Briton's job!) around £30 a week.

Yasmin Alibhai-Brown of that awful anti-British hate sheet "The Independent" says we British workers are "lazy slobs" who have priced ourselves out of a job. Why the hate speak in "the Indy"? Is it because Alibhai-Brown is not British as we are ? I will offer to do her job for a tenth of the wage she is getting from "The Indy".

Some years ago I went to see a movie. It was based on a novel about mercenary soldiers serving in Africa. The novelist was Freddy Forsyth who writes rip-roaring tales.
One of the mercenaries was a blond-haired, blue-eyed White man of Germanic origins. The troop of mercenaries come across little Black children. They know that if they let the children go free, they will run to the village and tell their older family. Thus a band of armed men will track them and start a firefight with the mercenaries. The success of the whole mission is dependent up[on them quietly infiltrating the HQ of their enemy.
The blond-haired, blue-eyed German mercenary kills the two little Black children. The women in the cinema let loose with a great "ooooh" of pity. It had that effect on them.
Who makes these movies which project evil stereotype images of White Germanic looking men? I have a pretty good idea but - the Race Act protects those who make this sort of film. In fact it DOUBLY protects the particular group I am thinking of.

In the ranks of the Left, and among the bleeding-heart so called liberals, McCarthyism is a dirty word. Why? The truth is, Senator Joe McCarthy was a loyal American patriot who sought to defend his country from evil Communist subversives. These evil men and women wormed their way into high offices of state only to betray America in the service of Communist Imperialism with its Death Culture.
Recently some documents were made public by the secret police in Russia. These gave lists of the names of folk who spied for Communism in America - hundreds of them! So Joe McCarthy was right all along; but the so-called liberals who defamed him are retired now, living on fat pensions which they got for betraying America by rubbishing the efforts of true patriots like Senator Joe McCarthy.

The Left have supported the policy of national self-determination for Black people, Yellow people, Brown people and Jewish people. They call it "Progressive nationalism" since it broke non-White nations away from the White West (which the left call Imperialism - the evil in their failed world view).
However, if Whites should demand national self-determination the Left will call it "racism", "White supremacist"," Nazism". They will say it is "Reactionary Nationalism" which must be put down with the utmost violence. When Germany sought national self-determination in 1930's and 1940's, a terrible war was stirred up against that nation. Sixty-one of its great cities and large towns were reduced to heaps of rubble. Twenty-six of them endured horrendous fire-storms as a consequence of 1000 bomber raids.

Why this awful hatred for us White folks? Who is at the back of it? Some students of history say that the Big bankers sought to erect an Internationalist financial system that would give them control of the world. Whose to say they are not right?

You would think we had made up the front page headline, so horrific are its implications. Well we have not. The projected 150,000,000 (yes that's right MILLIONS) is based on a United Nations special report on Global Warming. The report states that as global weather in Asia and Africa deteriorates, hundreds of millions of non-Whites will start heading North and West and eventually arrive up on the coasts of Europe.

This is a nightmare scenario. The fact that the year given is 2050 is no comfort. We already have one year 2060, when it is predicted that the White people of Great Britain will become a minority in their own country. Already our capital city in many parts (perhaps all?) has a non-White majority. Don't forget also that even of 2050 sounds far off, non-European immigration into Great Britain is continuing in a steady stream.

Every day untold numbers of illegal Asylum seekers are coming in by train, boat and plane and in the backs of an endless stream of trucks. Legal immigration continues at sky-high rates. We have, the BPP estimate that their are around five million non-Whites now in Britain. We cannot prove this. Nobody, but nobody has any idea of the racial make up of this country.

In some London schools over thirty languages are spoke. Now we do not advocate hatred of these non-Whites. In their place we would probably heading for soft-touch Britain! However it is our contention that with immigrants pouring in from every part of the non-White world, the multi-racial, multi-cultural and multi-ethnic society so beloved of our Marxist Government is collapsing around it's ears and in the process it is destroying the hopes and dreams not just of our own people but of EVERY other race in this country too.

Asians, Blacks, Chinese and whatever do not want the multi-racial society either. It is killing all cultures, heritages and identities. The only people who want it are the Marxist Communists who now control our country under the guise of "New Labour". There answer to the so obviously doomed multi-racial experiment which has caused so much bloodshed, hatred and crime throughout our once fair land is ever increasing repressive laws especially against White Nationalists so as ourselves in the British People's Party.

The race hate brigade in the New Labour party have a lot to answer for and one day they will!
RACISM is NOT a crime! Racism is the love of one's own race above all else. The BPP is racist. We admit it! Why? Because we love our own people, not because we hate any other race. Racial separation and humane repatriation is the final answer for the harmony of all races.

The Way we Live now

by Junius

Our new PM....

This piece of political garbage masqueraded as Chancellor of the Exchequer, number two in the Blair Cabinet, for ten whole years. He approved, concurred with, and supported, every treacherous act of that Cabinet and never murmured dissent. Surprisingly, none of our media pundits has come up with the reason for Gordon Brown's continuing, and amazing, 'loyalty' to Blair and his New Labour Mafia. And yet to us it seems obvious enough. Had he had the guts to oppose anything at all, maybe the disastrous venture into Iraq for example, he would have had to quit his sinecure at the Treasury and, as a result, would have forfeited the inheritance for which he has waited so long. This rapacious thief who has never stopped putting his hand into our pockets with absolutely no benefit at all to the British people, is now trying to reinvent himself, and has had the gall to promote his own Britishness as part of his campaign to win your support. Do not be fooled. Nothing has changed.

..... and the tax regime that he 'managed'

May we remind you that five in every six of what are known as the super-rich are using loopholes to avoid paying as much as £2 billion every year in income tax. So, how is it done? If you are a British citizen, and can afford the outlay, it is a great advantage to maintain a residence, or two, or more, in foreign parts. Then, if you spend no more than 90 days in the UK during a 4 year period, you qualify as a non-resident and pay nothing to the taxman. For foreigners it is even easier. They can stay here all year round but, being regarded as non-domiciled, they will pay no UK tax whatsoever on their vast incomes generated in other countries. No wonder they can afford to buy our football clubs! Another ploy is to put your worldly wealth into an offshore trust in a tax haven. Provided that the income and gains from the trust are not returned to the UK, they are beyond the reach of HM Customs and Excise as they now term themselves. Think about all this when you next look at your own pay slip!

A mugger's paradise

Another popular dodge, also designed to improve one's cash flow, is to have one hand, or even both, permanently in the till. And it is here that our wonderful European Commission really comes in handy. Recently the EU's anti-fraud watchdog launched an enquiry into the suspected embezzlement of millions of euros by the Centre for the Development of Enterprise. It seems that the staff of this well named institution have been siphoning off taxpayers money to companies controlled by their relatives and mates. The Centre's director, Ahmed Sow, who was, of course, totally unaware of what was going on, has resigned his post in order to make himself available for elections in Mali!

The Commission notes that it has not been affected by a large scale fraud since the Eurostat affair in 2003 when €5 million went adrift into secret bank accounts. Surely it would have been more honest to admit that this was the first such wangle to be actually uncovered since that time. In our view it never stops and, if a Commissioner as gifted as 'Lord' Kinnock was unable to plug the gaps, then who else stands a chance.

The safety of the Nation

The secretary general of Interpol notes that the UK is failing to check immigrants against a global database of suspected terrorists. Mr. Noble rightly points out that the men arrested following the failed bomb attacks in London and Glasgow had only recently arrived in Britain, and that such incidents might well be prevented if we bothered to compare immigrants' details against information freely available to us. These people may well be wanted somewhere else and we would never know it!

The re-assuring news for potential bombers is that responsibility for security checks on immigrants from countries including India and Pakistan has been transferred to VFS Global a private company based in India! Forgive us please for reviving that old and so very pertinent cliché, "You should never put Count Dracula in charge of the blood bank".

"The days of top down, we know best politics, delivered to a passive public are coming to an end. Instead we want a politics that is bottom-up and open - driven by the passions and priorities of the people themselves. I look forward to hearing from you."

This, from the leader of Her Majesty's opposition, is a sick joke. Look back over history Dave, and tell us when we approved of uncontrolled immigration, of Britain becoming a part of Mr. Barroso's European empire, of IRA gangsters having a say in the government of Ulster, of streets unsafe for folk to walk down, and British troops dying in conflicts that have neither justification nor purpose. Over the years the Lab/Con/Lib lot have had a very good idea of what was wanted, what was needed. And what was best for Britain has ever been blindingly obvious to a ten year old. But, in this musical chairs democracy, the issues vital to our folk and Nation have never been addressed. Anyone who seriously believes that posting his or her views on the Internet will have the slightest effect on what actually happens should make an early appointment with a shrink!

Bush pledges to increase US funding to Israel! Zionism gets more funding!

US to bolster economic aid to Israel in new 10-year agreement, says US President Bush after meeting with Prime Minister Olmert

In a White House statement issued following Prime Minister Ehud Olmert's visit to Washington, President George W. Bush pledged to increase US military aid to Israel over the course of the next decade.

An American team will land in Israel in July to finalize the deal. Israel currently receives an annual $2.4 billion in military aid.

"I am strongly committed to Israel's security and viability as a Jewish state, and to the maintenance of its qualitative military edge," said Bush in the statement.

Olmert and Bush met in private for a lengthy three-hour meeting in the White House, focused on the ongoing negotiations to increase US aid to Israel.

"During our meeting today, I told Prime Minister Olmert that I am committed to reaching a new ten-year agreement that will give Israel the increased assistance it requires to meet the new threats and challenges it faces," said the president.

Talks between groups of Israeli and American professionals over the past few months reviewed Israel's increased military expenditure in the face of the growing Iranian threat. The new talks were launched during Olmert's previous visit to Washington.

Following the Camp David Accords Israel began receiving an annual budget of $3 billion from the US, including $1.8 in military aid and $1.2 in civilian aid.

During former Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's tenure in the mid-90's Israel worked towards decreasing foreign aid and an agreement was made to gradually lower civilian aid by $120 million over a 10-year period until its complete abolition and correspondingly increase military aid by $60 million. That process is currently being completed with the $2.4 billion aid package for 2008 due to be approved by the US House of Representative recently.

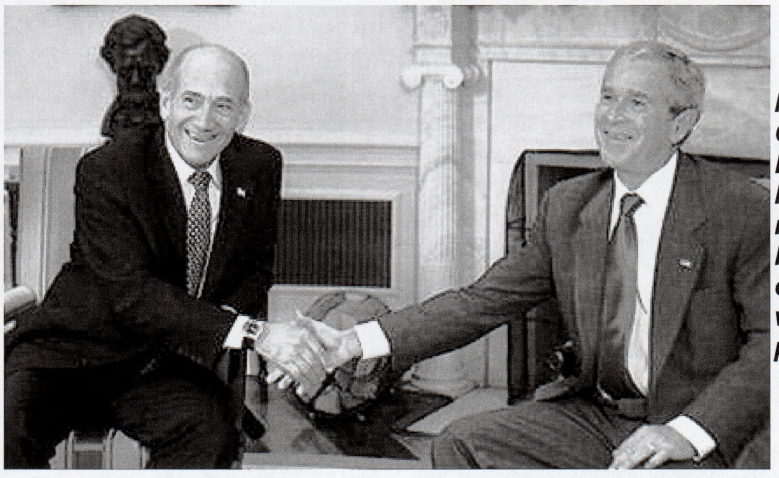
The deal Bush seeks to finalize would commence in 2009 and would remain valid for 10 years. Olmert's office declined comment on the specific amounts being discussed.



In the picture we see One Worlder and Super-Zionist George Bush with Jewish prime Minister Olmert. Bush is pledging another ten years of tens of millions of dollars to prop up Israel. The BPP refuses to recognise the state of Israel. We consider it an illegal bandit state which is carrying out a policy of genocide. Israeli politicians and militarists should face a war crimes tribunal - Nuremberg would be a good place to hold it!

Immigration!

1 There will be no special bilingual programs in the schools, no special ballots for elections, and all government business will be conducted in our language.
2 Foreigners will NOT have the right to vote, no matter how long they are here.
3 Foreigners will NEVER be able to hold political office.
4 Foreigners will not be a burden to the taxpayers. No welfare, no food stamps, no health care, nor any other government assistance programs.
5 Foreigners can invest in this country, but it must be an amount equal to 50,000 times the daily minimum wage.
6 If foreigners do come and want to buy land that will be okay, BUT options will be restricted. They are not allowed to own waterfront property. That property is reserved for citizens naturally born into this country.
7 Foreigners may not protest; no demonstrations, no waving a foreign flag, no political organizing, no "bad-mouthing" our president or his policies. If they do they will be sent home.
8 If you do come to this country illegally, you will be hunted down and sent straight to jail.

Harsh, you say?...

The above laws happen to be the immigration laws of MEXICO!

Managing Eccentrics

All political movements attract oddballs and the fringes of the spectrum have always been blessed with odd characters. When John Bean left the Empire Loyalists in 1958 to form his own party, A K Chesterton wrote to him and concluded: "Of course I would not wish to hide from you my recognition of your penchant for associating with people of markedly eccentric views whose membership of any movement would infallibly damn it." Bean states that he had met most of them: "on League activities where he too – Chesterton - had tried to use them." (John Bean, Many Shades of Black, New Millennium 1999)

Keeping a nationalist movement together has never been easy. Nellie Driver of the prewar British Union described the difficulties of running a branch:

"Some of our sympathizers were well known Tory businessmen and Nelson would have been astonished if they had known who they were. Our members were a mixed crowd, and when I looked at some of them I almost regretted my enterprise. They brought home to me the old saying; 'There's nowt as queer as Fowk.' For every good normal member we got several who were cranks – and worse."

"We had several other cranks and faddists with waste paper basket ideas. We seemed to attract them. Somehow, and two members ended in such chaos that London officials came up to straighten out the mess . . . How could we possibly get on with the cause when Mormon clashed with Pacifist, Catholic with ex-Communist, Methodist with C of E and anti-vivisectionist with Christadelphian?

It was almost like a comic opera. One side would demand more social events – another side would insist on more street meetings, and still another side would want to include rules of their own, till my head hummed and I tried in vain to restore order. The District leader also was at his wits end. We could not get our member to salute us publicly or privately, and they were frightened to death of selling papers at Nelson Centre, or of taking part in most of the activities that National Headquarters insisted on."

(Lunn and Thurlow, British Fascism, Croom Helm 1980)

Keeping dissident members under control is one of the many skills needed to run a party. Recruits come from all backgrounds and bring various prejudices with them. The officers of the party need to handle their charges with tact and firmness and try to instill discipline and comradeship without driving them away.

The established parties have got their fair share of fruitcakes but they are more adept at camouflaging them. It would be nice if all members were gainfully employed and married with two children and a mortgage. But the world is full of individuals who are out of step with society, and some of them are honest souls who stand for Britain for the British. Harold Wilson's government valued George Brown for all his foibles and the Tories might come to depend on the mercurial Boris Johnson. Eccentrics are an inevitable part of politics who are usually a nuisance but sometimes they can make a worthwhile contribution.

Bill Bailey

THE EURO - JUST SAY NO!

The Daily Telegraph (13/12/06) proclaimed the imminent collapse of the Euro. But far from collapsing it has climbed to $1.37 and will be adopted by another six European states, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Slovakia, Malta and Cyprus on Jan 1st 2008. They will join the eighteen countries that already use the common currency. That only leaves Switzerland, Norway and Iceland, who are linked to the EU by the EFTA treaty, the former communist states, who have already applied, the UK awaiting prudent Gordon's decision on when to join and Denmark that is already tied to the Euro. The Euro is yet another thing that the Eurosceptics got wrong.

The economy of the EU is booming, the Euro is the world's second reserve currency and now rivals the Dollar. There is no significant opposition to membership and no country is one iota less French, or German, or Italian, or whatever for belonging to the world's biggest trading bloc.

WANT TO BE A SUICIDE BOMBER? YOU DON'T QUALIFY!

For years the multi racists have been going on about the "vibrant mix" that has enriched all our lives. At last we have discovered that it's a vibrant mix of chapatti flour and hydrogen peroxide. The 7/7 bombers were born in Leeds and Bradford of immigrant parents, except for Abdullah Shaheed Jamal who was born in Jamaica. The 21/7 gang were all African asylum seekers or illegal immigrants and the latest batch of suspects come from Iraq and India. It seems that suicide bombing is one of the many jobs that Britons do not want to do, another vital part of our economy for which we depend on Third World labour. We can thank the old gang politicians for importing these homicidal maniacs and for all the death and chaos that they have caused.

Vanguard note: Ironically if the 21/7 gang had waited three days they would have been the 24/7 bombers! Sick we know but very apt to considering we are actively importing Muslim terrorists!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sir,

Recently the media have made much of currently incarcerated Muslim terrorists having being allowed, whilst on bail, to travel to countries such as Iraq, Pakistans & Afghanistan, rightfully questioning the wisdom of the authorities & police to permit such "holidays" & "pilgrimages".

There are indeed very serious questions to be answered pertaining to such travels.

Whilst there would appear to be little restriction upon such groups & individuals to journey to such "hotspots", our Islamic travelers are indeed fortunate in that they are not intending to travel to Northern Ireland!

As an Ulsterman living on mainland Britain, I can tell readers travels to what is supposedly a part of the UK is indeed a cause for concern & suspicion for our ever vigilant Special Branch with travelers viciously interrogated, rigorously catalogued & even detained under "Prevention of Terrorism" legislation!

Family ties mean nothing to the eagle-eyed spotters as your politics, luggage, destination & what you've recently eaten are gone over with a fine tooth comb! Failure to be less than delighted with being treated like a terror suspect can result in a court appearance for Breach of the Peace! However, exemptions are available for travelers suitably attired in Celtic FCC sporting gear and/or those sporting IRA tattoos. Also should you be an illegal immigrant, speedy passage in guaranteed. (This actually happened during my questioning)

It is time the SB, police & authorities got REAL! The Ulster people are British, or proven loyalty to this Nation. I would advise these politically correct manderins to look at those anti-Western & anti-British elements who are allowed to enter & depart with impunity leaving death & destruction in their wake!

Sir,

Every genuine patriot has to get active. If everyone who read this magazine leafleted a few local estates or streets then we would soon build up a popular movement against mass immigration, the EU and the complacent mainstream politicians. Everyone who loves Britain should order leaflets, stickers and posters and get them distributed as widely as possible.

Sir,

As an American Christian Conservative who lives in liberal leftist NYC and wish I could leave IF I could. I saw your very good political org. by accident on the Internet and wanted to give some ideas.

1) The Left can be defeated in simple ways. Expose why Communist parties are freely allowed all over Europe when Communism exterminated 30-40 MILLION people in the last 70 years.

2) why are there no Holocaust museums anywhere in Europe for Communist genocide and mass murder? Why only for the supposed mass murder of 6 million Jews?

3) Here in NYC the highest crimes every day are by Aliens. I welcome valid comments from patriotic citizens from England.

Sir,

THE MAYORS INSULT TO VICTIMS.

Only a stone's throw from where Richard Whelan and teenager Martin Dinnegan were murdered by Black criminals, Ken Livingstone and his fellow British hating rabble organised an "anti racist" festival.

Finsbury Park played host to Kens latest celebration of white guilt, called RISE , where a mostly White crowd got together in the pouring rain to ignore the plight of their own people and pretend to be Black for the day.

Of course there would have been no mention of Richard or Martin or the violent and tragic deaths they met, or indeed Stuart Grant who was a Finsbury man and was yet another victim of Kens "chosen ones"... If it doesn't fit the leftist villain-victim script, then they couldn't care less. The whole "equality for all" is a sham.

Only in this warped hypocritical society, run by the likes of Livingstone, can we have a festival of "anti racism" in an area where white people are most often the victims. Think about it. It's another insult to every white person in London.

LIVINGSTONE & CO....SHAME ON YOU!

Sir,

Northern Ireland is playing host to the British-Irish Council summit. As the BBC reports, the headline is that it is Gordon Brown's first visit to Belfast since becoming Prime Minister. Northern Ireland's executive ministers are expected to call again for a peace dividend at the meeting, code for demanding more money from the Treasury (biggest contributor, England). Strategic transport links in Britain and Ireland will also be discussed by the council.

But what is the British-Irish council? The council brings together eight governments representing Westminster (the United Kingdom government), Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Northern Ireland, Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man. It is a talking shop that apparently co-operates on bringing work forward in areas of mutual interest: "including the misuse of drugs, environment, knowledge economy, social inclusion, e-Health, tourism, transport, minority and lesser-used languages and demography." In other words it is a costly excuse for a knees up and deciding where money will be spent.

Oxo family advert is re-cast for 21st century

The Oxo family is set to return to the small screen.

Oxo will soon reveal a 21st century family to replace the household of the 1980's and 90's led by actress Lynda Bellingham.

That advertising campaign ran for 23 years until it was scrapped in 1999, but Oxo has decided to revive the television adverts with a younger, multi-cultural, multi-racial household.

Auditions were held in central London last week to cast the new family of five - plus grandparents - and more than 100 actors were tried out over two days.

Oxo's efforts to reflect modern family life follow the lead set by BT in its recent advertising campaign which featured a single mother.

Advertising on TV is becoming a real weapon in the hands of the multi-racialists. Advert after advert pushes racial integration. DFS and Benetton are amongst the worst offenders. Every ad it seems has to be Politically Correct!

Left: The Oxo advert before multi-racialism. God knows what the new one will look like! (See below because now we know!)

Right: A truly outrageous Benetton advertisement. They seem to be amongst the worst offenders.

Right: Vanguard has tracked down the new Oxo advert. No comment is possible - it speaks for itself!

Every day we open our papers or turn on the TV to read of child-molesters and other arrested evil paedophile scum receiving pitifully short sentences from our so-called judges' system. These perverts are brought before the courts charged with such depraved offences as distributing child porn, sexual abuse of kids, child rape and baby murder. STAND BY LOYAL ULSTER!

Loyal Ulster is under threat! A conspiracy by the 'British' and Irish governments, hand in hand with the Marxist IRA, is endangering the status of Northern Ireland as part of Great Britain!

The aim of the murdering IRA and their fellow Irish Republican travellers is to create a single state of Ireland ruled by Dublin by using any means at their disposal. They are experts at indiscriminately murdering innocent people by the bomb and the bullet. Contrary to the conditions of the so-called 'peace treaty' known as the 'Good Friday Agreement' the IRA are still in existence and their terror programme is still in operation. Their members are once again on our streets continuing their campaign of hate against the British people of Ulster. All these red terrorists should have received the death penalty for their crimes and hung like common criminals. To those who will say that Loyalist prisoners have also been released, we state that those loyal Britons should not have been imprisoned in the first place. Would any other country jail its citizens for fighting to defend it from attack by a foreign power? In Britain though, those standing up for our nation are condemned by both the corrupt politicians in power and by the pro-Republican media, most of whose journalists subscribe to the politics of Karl Marx like their comrades in the IRA.

Ulster is, and must always remain, British. Those people currently resident in Northern Ireland who refuse to renounce allegiance to the Irish Republic and do not consider themselves British should lose their British Citizenship and, as a result, their automatic right to live on British soil. This would enable all IRA activists and their supporters to be removed permanently from the UK.

The White Nationalist Party supports the right of the British people of Ulster to maintain their British heritage within the United Kingdom.

We say to hell with Tony Blair and his IRA supporting string-pullers in the USA.

FREEDOM? WHAT FREEDOM?

For hundreds of years freedom of speech has been the right of every honest British Man and woman. Now that birthright has been taken from you.

Labour and Conservative governments have passed Race Laws and Public Order laws which forbid full and free discussion of the questions of race and immigration in Britain. They know their precious multiracial Britain is a DISASTER - so they are shutting up the voices of dissent by dragging honest White patriots before their law courts and fining or jailing them for the most trivial offences!

Are you ANGRY about the way free speech has been taken away from you? Are you ANGRY that you can no longer speak about the crisis mass immigration and the floods of asylum seekers have brought to this country? Are you ANGRY that race riots are tearing up towns such as Oldham, Burnley and Bradford and you can't say a thing about it?

You should be!

WARNING!

Bogus 'Asylum Seekers' are swamping YOUR area

"We hear reports back home of how good life is in Britain. It will be a better place for my wives. But the most important thing is for my children to get a good education."

Above: Afi-Ali, bogus "asylum seeker" waiting in France for entry to Britain with his two wives, sister and six children

Every day of every year, thousands of immigrants, a lot of them illegal, swarm into Britain, many of them seeking the easy comforts of freebenefits. All funded by YOU. Both Rich and poor! Now a new flood is started. Tens of thousands of "asylum seekers", supposedly fleeing oppression in their own countries but in many cases just getting a free ride on our economy, are coming into this country from Albania, Kosovo and from dozens of Third World countries. Our economy can not bear the strain of all these new benefit seekers, sorry, "asylum seekers" - many of them bogus

The present government, which doesn't give a damn about the real British people, are forcing out these false refugees into many different areas of Britain and yours will be one of them! These bogus "refugees" and illegal immigrants are now housed, at YOUR expense, in houses courtesy of your local council. They have been housed ahead of ordinary Britons who been on the waiting lists for years. They are drawing Social Security benefits, all paid for by us, whilst our old folk freeze to death because they can't afford to pay their fuel bills and people are turned away from hospitals to die because there isn't enough money for beds. Satellite TV, mobile phones, new furniture - you name it, they've got it - ALL FREE! Even working people find it hard to afford these luxuries yet these people are getting it all on top of the usual child benefit, housing benefit and number cash payments from the DSS. Sick-to-death Britain - it's a joke but the White working people, whose ancestors fought and died for this country, aren't laughing as they pay for these 'refugees' to live a life of luxury!

Only a firm policy that will STOP IMMIGRATION and begin a programme of humane, phased REPATRIATION can save Britain from this floodtide. This isn't a policy of 'racial hatred', it is a policy of COMMON SENSE!

NEWS IN BRIEF

Let's all call God Allah: Dutch bishop!

A Roman Catholic Bishop in the Netherlands has proposed people of all faiths refer to God as Allah to foster understanding, stoking an already heated debate on religious tolerance in a country with one million Muslims. Bishop Tiny Muskens, from the southern diocese of Breda, told Dutch television that God did not mind what he was named and that in Indonesia, where Bishop Muskens spent eight years, priests used the word "Allah" while celebrating Mass.

"Allah is a very beautiful word for God. Shouldn't we all say that from now on we will name God Allah?" he said. "What does God care what we call him? It is our problem." A survey in the Netherlands' biggest-selling newspaper De Telegraaf found 92 percent of the more than 4,000 people polled disagreed with the bishop's view, which also drew ridicule. "Sure. Let's call God Allah. Let's then call a church a mosque and pray five times a day. Ramadan sounds like fun,"

Dear Son, Let me tell you what immigration has done to this country

Last year, former Tory minister George Walden wrote a book about the future of life in Britain and why record numbers were emigrating. Taking the form of a letter from a father to his son, it provoked a massive, positive response from readers when it was serialised in the Daily Mail. In the book, Guy and Catherine despaired at having to bring up their two children in an area that had been dramatically changed by mass immigration, where their children had become a minority in school and teachers struggled to deal with so many pupils who did not speak English.

The country - where 57 per cent of births in the capital are now to mothers who were born abroad - seemed to be failing them on multiple fronts, not just on education but also on security and health care. Since then, the couple have given up the battle and moved abroad to Canada. And they are not alone in their decision. As Walden pointed out in the first serialisation, a total of 350,000 people left Britain in 2004 - equivalent to a third of the population of Birmingham.

Britain Needs Moral Revolution To Beat Drunks, Yobs And Killers

A Deepening sense of anarchy prevails across much of urban Britain. Random violence, savagery and loutishness have become common. The material affluence of our modern age has been paralleled by a chronic decline in civility. Respect once meant a concern for the feelings and needs of others. Today, in our increasingly brutish urban culture, it is code for little more than aggressive selfishness.

Only in the past few days there have been two examples of the kind of vicious disorder that scars our society. First, devoted father and family man Garry Newlove was kicked to death outside his home in Warrington after confronting a gang of drunken vandals who were damaging his property.

Second, in south London, Evren Anil, a brilliant computer graduate, was lethally punched by a youth who had thrown litter into his car. Anil, who bravely confronted the thug, was plunged into a coma after being knocked to the ground, dying eight days later. What unites these incidents is the callous indifference of the assailants for human life. In the wake of these deaths, there has been the inevitable search for a solution to a crime- wave that seems out of control.

NHS BREAKING DOWN!

Baby dies after mother is forced to deliver it herself in hospital toilet Labours flagship NHS A distraught young mother was forced to give birth to her premature baby in a toilet at one of Britain's newest flagship hospitals. Catherine Brown had to wait an agonising 21 hours for a scan to discover her 18-week-old unborn son was dying. When the 30 year old surveyor, whose own life was threatened by the pregnancy, agreed to undergo a chemically-induced abortion she was transferred to a mixed sex ear, nose and throat ward - because there was no dedicated gynaecological unit at the new £238 million Queen's Hospital in Romford, Essex. She finally gave birth, after waiting an agonising hour for gas and air to be provided to ease her pain, standing over a toilet with her distraught mother by her side because there were no trained midwives available to help her.

EVEN MORE MEDICAL NEGLECT OF OLD WHITE FOLK

Death of great grandfather left screaming in agony by care home was 'preventable' A coroner blasted a care home over the "preventable" death of a blind 90-year-old man whose screams for help were ignored by staff watching TV. John Robinson died of multiple organ failure after care home staff failed to send him to hospital for four days when he developed an infection.

Yesterday assistant deputy coroner Catherine Mason condemned the privately-run Hazeldene Nursing Home in Darnall, Sheffield, after hearing that care workers ignored the great-grandfather who was left screaming in pain, shivering and suffering from a high temperature for days. At Sheffield Coroner's Court, Mrs Mason concluded that "his death was preventable if earlier treatment had been given". In a stinging attack on the home, she added: "Medical attention was not sought for Mr Robinson who was in a dependent condition.

The BPP says -

Reform the NHS now. Put our own people first. Stop Overseas Aid and spend it on our own disastrous medical services!

LABOUR TOP DOG PUTS HER FOOT IN IT OVER IMMIGRATION!

Hazel Blears, fighting to become deputy leader of the Labour Party, was recently at the centre of controversy after she appeared to suggest that immigrants were engaged in anti-social behaviour and street drinking.

Miss Blears also said people in her Salford constituency were concerned that immigrants were undercutting their wages and that they were less willing to pay tax. The Labour Party chairman told The Independent on Sunday she was "very worried" that the far right was capitalising on fears about immigration because mainstream politicians were failing to address people's concerns. About 40 per cent of the public thought immigration a significant issue compared with 10 per cent a decade ago, she said.

"There has been a dramatic change in communities. We have got people living in Salford now from every country under the sun. We used to be 93 per cent white working class. Our community's changing before our eyes. People can see it and when they see it they get worried - if it is not being managed properly."

British people did not object to immigrants, but they wanted "fairness" in the way that they behave. "If it is perceived not to be fair, then you do get tension," Ms Blears said. "I think everyone is working harder now probably than they have ever worked before and they feel that everyone who can work should. They don't like people to avoid paying taxes: if they have got to do it, everyone else should.

Hazel Blears now centre of a race storm after her remarks on immigrants. Oh dear Miss Blears you may have blown your political career - how dare you speak the truth!

"We have got areas in Salford where private landlords are letting properties with 10 and 12 people in there. Now the community doesn't object to the people, they object to the exploitation and the fact that that leads to people being on the street drinking, anti-social behaviour. They don't object to the people being there, but they object if they are undercutting wages and not getting the national minimum wage and they are not abiding bhealth and safety, so you have got to enforce the law."

The controversy echoes the row surrounding Margaret Hodge, the Industry Minister, who suggested British indigenous families must be given preferential access to social housing. Ms Blears, who said she disagreed with Ms Hodge, called on people from different ethnic backgrounds to mix through sports clubs and in schools, and said there were "dangers" for society in segregated areas. She said: "You can't tell people where to live. You can't say this street is reserved for eight black families and eight white families. But you can provide a range of housing that people want to live in. You can make it attractive, secure and safe. Sometimes people cleave together because they don't think it's safe. Now if you have a proper police service, people will feel comfortable living in other areas."

Simon Woolley, director of Operation Black Vote, accused Ms Blears of pandering to far-right rhetoric. "There is absolutely no evidence migrant workers are drinking on the street and most people would accept migrant workers are doing a good job for a fair price."

Norman Lamb, a Liberal Democrat MP, said: "To paint this sort of picture plays to dangerous and wholly wrong stereotypes."

The shape of things to come

Vladimir Bukowsky the Soviet dissident who spent many years in psychiatric hospitals has warned that the EU is a conspiracy on the part of the Rothschilds. This idea has been accepted by Euro-sceptics because it reinforces their belief that the EU is a Zionist-run Franco-German plot to destroy Britain.

The late Jimmy Goldsmith was passionately opposed to European Union and wasted a fortune on his unsuccessful Referendum Party - forerunner of the equally underachieving UKIP. Of course Jimmy was himself a Rothschild so he probably wouldn't have agreed with Bukowsky's conclusions

Britain was dependent on America from 1940 to 2006. We have now repaid our wartime loan but we are still very close to our old benefactor. The Suez Invasion of 1956 was the last time that Britain mounted a military operation without American permission. Only to be humiliatingly ordered to withdraw on pain of financial ruin, even though we had acted in concert with Israel and France.

Readers of the Tory press refuse to believe that Britain is part of the American sphere of influence. They like to talk about "independence" and " sovereignty" but any freedom of action was exchanged for Lend Lease and Liberty Ships over sixty years ago.

Global capitalism controls most of the world. Nations retain the trappings of independence but it's mostly illusionary. Egypt stages great military parades to mark Independence Day but she is totally dependent on foreign aid and access to American-controlled markets. The same goes for most of the allegedly sovereign states with bankrupt national airlines and seats at the United Nations.

Iraq was America's friend for many years. They fought the Iranians who had dared to nationalize oil, and slaughtered the Kurds who threatened NATO's southern flank in Turkey. They bought American arms and sold their oil for Dollars. But Saddam made the fatal mistake of thinking that he was really running the show. When he tried to annex Kuwait his country was attacked by an American-led coalition, blockaded and starved for a decade, flattened by air strikes and invaded by an army bent on maximum terror and destruction.

America controls much of the world's commerce but we have still got The City of London, a mighty economic generator that dominates banking and insurance. When Brazil wants to trade with Japan, and when America sells insurance to South Korea, the deals are brokered and underwritten in London. New York, Frankfurt and Zurich are still no match for the Square Mile.

There's no doubt that the European Union is dominated by global capitalism but it's a positive step towards the coming together of the people of Europe. And on a practical level it has been a remarkable commercial success that has improved living conditions throughout the continent. We now enjoy the highest standard of living in our history and the longest period of peace for centuries.

The conspiracists will believe what they like but ordinary people value their increased prosperity and they will not risk it by supporting old-fashioned nationalists who would plunge a thriving economy into dangerous uncertainty. Parties fighting the pan-European problem of external immigration are limiting their appeal by clinging to these increasingly outdated policies.

We do not know the shape of things to come. The influx of economic refugees will change America beyond recognition. The Atlantic Alliance will not mean much to a President reliant on Mexican votes; and the UK will depend on the oil and gas made available by a European alliance with Russia.

Together the people of Europe can survive and prosper but as separate states we will be overwhelmed by the teeming masses of the Third World. To design and build multi role aircraft like the Typhoon, or launch satellites into space like Ariane we need all of Europe's scientific and industrial capacity. We can achieve anything but first we must learn to think and act as Europeans.

SWEDISH NATIONALISTS RALLY TO ZUNDEL'S CAUSE!

On Saturday, 7th of July, the Nationalsocialistisk front (NSF) in Sweden held a protest demonstration outside the German embassy in Stockholm, demanding the release of historian and publicist Ernst Zündel.

Ernst Zündel is imprisoned in Germany where he's serving a 5-year sentence, which was also preceded by 4 years in custody while waiting for his trial. The crime committed justifying such a harsh punishment is Ernst Zündel having published books presenting new scientific evidence regarding certain events of the Second World War.

Despite bad weather and oppression from the police, the demonstration assembled just under 200 friends of free speech. By 2pm the procession of demonstrators began marching, lined up in columns with banners in the front, from the gathering point at Östermalmstorg towards the German embassy, with chorus shouting "FREE ZÜNDEL - MARTYR FOR THE TRUTH". Many curious pedestrians stopped along the route to watch the march.

When arriving outside the German embassy the police had sealed of the area with a fence and a large number of policies where present. The standard-bearers lined up before the fence, while a public addressing system was set up, making sure no one in the vicinity would miss what was going on.

Three international representatives were present during the demonstration, from Denmark's National Socialist Movement (DNSB), Nordisches Hilfswerk, and Russian National Unity (RNU). Together with leaders from NSF they walked past the police fence, to deliver a written protest, demanding Ernst Zündel's release, to the German Embassy.

The first speaker to address the public was Daniel Höglund, from Nationalsocialistisk front (NSF). Daniel spoke of how the Swedish "hate speech" law is used only to silence the national opposition in Sweden and the many juridical outrages Ernst Zündel suffered from American, Canadian and German governments. He also spoke about how historical revisionism gains more and more influence despite the authorities witchhunt on those who dare speak the truth.

Next was the representative from DNSB, Torben Have, who described how a certain ethnical group always seems to stand above laws who apply to other ethnical groups. He also spoke about how this same ethnical minority controls an disproportionate part of the media in the western world.

The last speaker was, from Germany, Stephan Günther, from Nordisches Hilfswerk, an organization that's working to strengthen the bonds between German and Nordic nationalists. Günther spoke about the extremely difficult situation German nationalist are presented with, and described how the authorities through juridical terror and persecution are trying to silence the growing national opposition.

The demonstration marked the end of a campaign called "Free Speech is threatened" that NSF has held since three months back. During the campaign close to 400 000 leaflets has been spread all around Sweden and public meetings has been held, all to enlighten the masses of how the so called "free speech" applies in reality, and how the democratic government persecutes and imprisons nationalists who do not conform to the opinion approved by the state.

The BPP says - "Free Ernst Zundel NOW!"

BPP AND NF STAND TOGETHER AGAINST QUEER PARADE

by Peter Williamson

Recently, the National Front held a demonstration in Brighton, not far from where I live, during the gay parade, and to demand the reinstatement of Clause 28 to the UK statute book. And in conjunction with the current and long awaited unity, both myself and my BPP comrade Buster were invited to take part. It was a lovely sunny day on the south coast and it was great to reacquaint ourselves with comrades we had met in the past. Unfortunately things soon began to go wrong, not between comrades, we all got along fine, it was when Sussex Police turned up that things started to go wrong. The demo had been organised properly and everything by the book, the police had been informed, and had told the NF that they could 'demonstrate anywhere in Brighton' on the day. I admit that did sound a little suspicious, but I personally thought the local police were merely inexperienced in these matters, and would seek advice from their colleagues in London. I might well have been right, but if they did get advice, it was not on how to police such a demonstration properly.

When the police finally arrived at our rendezvous location, they had changed their minds about 'anywhere in Brighton', now we had a 'designated area'. The area they chose for us was on the corner of Baker Street and London Road, half way along the rout that the gay parade were taking on their way too the local park they had been given for their 'festival of queerness. When they first told us where our designated area was, I remember thinking what a great pitch it would be. But then all the other demo's I'd attended had been outside Brighton, and there was always some sort of barrier between the nationalist protesters and the general public, and a line of police in front of that barrier making sure that there was no trouble, for obvious reasons I was expecting the police in Brighton to do the same. How wrong could I have been! I was already feeling very embarrassed about the spectacle of my home town, that my comrades were greeted with. As we made our way from the RV to our designated area, we were surrounded by thousands and thousands of blatantly disgusting creatures. Not only dragged up homosexuals and butch lesbians, but multicoloured flags, and even more insulting pink Union Flags! I could sense the depression and disgust felt by my comrades at not only what they saw, but the very volume of it. Later the official figures released stated that over 120,000 attended the event in Brighton, the biggest in Europe.

Upon reaching our 'designated area' we were dismayed to see that there was no sign of any police, no barrier, nothing. In fact the pavement where we were supposed to demonstrate was already taken up by people who for some reason were supporting the event. A little later, and after umpteen phone calls, two policemen arrived, we asked when the rest would be coming, only to be told that there would be no others, and although we warned them that things would get out of hand, they insisted that we started our demo there and then. And so we began to put together the banners and placards that the NF lads had brought for the day.

With our two very disinterested policemen standing well out of the way and behind us, me and an NF comrade called Paul took the biggest banner, a huge one with National Front, Bring Back Clause 28 emblazoned across it to the roadside and held it aloft for all to see. What was to follow was absolutely surreal. We were sworn at, spat at, and missiles were thrown from the crowd that was gathering in front of us, I was struck by a bottle of drink thrown, and Paul was punched in the face. When he hit back, Paul was threatened by the police with arrest, this was the first time they had bothered to get involved. Our banners and flags were torn down and stolen, a bag containing others was also snatched, we were stood there by the roadside with just the pieces of wood left, that had once supporting our banners. Pretty soon a police van turned up, and all of a sudden there was lots of police. They took away the pieces of wood, just in case we used them if attacked again, then they demanded that we broke up the demo and told us to leave. No chance of a lift or escort back to our cars which were about 2 and a half miles away, we had to make it back on our own steam. This meant walking through the back streets to avoid the thronging crowd of perverts, of whom we had all become sick of the sight.

When we eventually returned to our vehicles, we decided to go to my home and unwind a little, and as we drove out of Brighton, we were astonished to see more and more bus and coach loads of 'people' heading into town. And with a homosexual population of over 50,000, I found myself wondering if Brighton could ever be saved.

So why, I ask, were the police so hostile towards what, on our part at least, was a peaceful demonstration about something we felt so strongly about? They obviously did know how to police a demo, because later photographs revealed that another group called Christian Voice had been looked after properly and held their demo without incident. What are the police afraid of? Some thought it might be because there are so many homosexual policemen in Brighton, after all they are advertising for 'Gay Lesbian Bisexual and Transgendered' recruits every week in the local newspapers, they have been for decades! Others thought it might be a direct result of new 'politically correct' police training procedures.

But could it be something else? Something entirely different perhaps? Could it be that the police know that nationalism in Great Britain is getting bigger by the day? Maybe, just maybe they realise that one day our movement WILL begin to gain the power needed to change this sick society. Not just politically, but in the towns and cities, in the estates, and on every street. Because, ladies and gentlemen, our time is approaching, all we need to do is keep on fighting, continuing to stand our ground, resisting the thought police and do-gooder liberals.

Just keep this movement alive ladies and gentlemen, because its not a matter of if, its a matter of when....

Demand for military hospital grows as UK's only war ward struggles with casualties Demand for a dedicated military hospital grew yesterday amid an overcrowding crisis at the country's only ward set aside for soldiers. MPs and veterans spoke out as rising casualty rates put intolerable pressure on the single NHS ward at Selly Oak Hospital, Birmingham. It has just 14 beds - yet, in the last month alone, 145 personnel have been flown back from Afghanistan and Iraq for treatment.
The dedicated "military-managed" ward, with uniformed military nurses working alongside NHS staff, was set up before Christmas following complaints from soldiers who found themselves on ordinary wards, isolated from their comrades and surrounded by civilians with no understanding of the terrors of war. But now officials admit the unit is too small for the numbers of battlefield casualties, and the overflow has had to be treated on ordinary mixed NHS wards.

'Police have lost control of streets' says ex cop A retired Kingston cop claims the Met has lost control of the capital's streets. The former detective spoke out during a television debate about the death of a man who was killed during a row over a chocolate bar. Evren Anil died in hospital this week days after an altercation with youths in Crystal Palace. The ex-policeman, who spent years pounding the capital's streets, told the BBC that violent crime was way out of control. And unlike Detective Chief Inspector Cliff Lyons - the man in charge of the investigation into Evren's death who said people were right to challenge yobbish behaviour - he said the problem was now too big for ordinary people to tackle.
He said he regularly saw incidents of antisocial behaviour in Kingston which could easily spill over into something more serious. "If you're fit and big enough to take these people on then maybe you should," he said, "But most people aren't and they should be aware of the dangers. "The police have lost control of the streets. I see things every day where older people who perhaps don't realise how things can escalate tut at people when they shouldn't."

Let's not cower from the hard truth about race and IQ The debate over racial differences in IQ represents perhaps the greatest scientific controversy of the past half-century. The facts are not in serious dispute: blacks score, on average, significantly lower than whites in IQ tests in the United States, Britain and beyond. Some argue that the only plausible response is to accept that blacks are naturally less intelligent than whites, a view that causes outrage among equal rights campaigners. But is there an alternative explanation for these puzzling statistics and what would it mean if there were not?
All too often the liberal establishment has stifled debate on the issue by pretending that it does not exist. It is asserted, for example, that the concept of intelligence is culturally relative. Even if this is (relatively) true, it does not alter the fact that the kind of intelligence revealed by IQ tests is crucial to one's prospects in the modern world. It hardly helps the cause of racial equality to argue that, although blacks do worse at IQ tests, they have the kind of intelligence that is useful in preindustrial societies.
The reluctance of liberals to engage in real debate has left the impression that there is an inconvenient truth about IQ differences that is being suppressed by political correctness. This has bolstered the phenomenon of black skin being used subconsciously as an information-bearing trait, so that blacks are judged as a group rather than as individuals. This has prejudiced blacks in finding jobs and amounts to de facto affirmative action for whites.

Warden arrested after he confiscates boy's bicycle A Park warden has been beaten up and arrested after his attempts to control antisocial behaviour in Great Hollands. The warden for the Wooden Hill recreation ground aims to prevent disorder breaking out and frequently encounters rowdy teenagers disturbing other visitors. The situation reached breaking point on Wednesday last week when one teenager was caught urinating into the paddling pool. The warden confiscated his bicycle and said his parents could come and collect it. But when police were informed they arrested the warden on suspicion of theft. This came less than two weeks after the warden called police saying he had been assaulted and racially abused by youngsters.

Judges told: Don't lock up yobs who flout Asbos A new row over yob violence broke out today as judges and magistrates were told that juveniles who flout Asbos should not be sent to jail. Proposals published today by the Government's Sentencing Advisory Panel state that custody should only be used when it is "unavoidable" - even if orders are breached repeatedly. It says that young offenders should first be considered for community sentence or a fine, partly because of legislation stating that the courts must pay regard to juveniles' welfare when passing sentence. In further advice, it also says that, in the few cases where detention is necessary, it should usually be from four months to no more than 12 months - only half the maximum allowed under the law. The recommendations-will raise new questions about the effectiveness of Asbos, the Government's flagship scheme for tackling anti-social behaviour.

Thoughts and reflections....

The Daily Express tells us Prince Charles only has 136 staff to look after him! How difficult life must be for the poor Prince eh? The Lib-Lab-Con should be ashamed subjecting him to such awful hardship!

Overseas call centres - China and Vietnam are scabbing the British Working class. We are seeing factory after factory closing down in Britain, and causing even more unemployment, and the poverty that goes with that unhappy state. Many of these "British" capitalists have moved their call centre operations overseas. Why? Because the left-wing governments in these lands are adopting class cooperation with our Capitalist class and only pay their workers (doing a Briton's job!) around £30 a week.

Yasmin Alibhai-Brown of that awful anti-British hate sheet "The Independent" says we British workers are "lazy slobs" who have priced ourselves out of a job. Why the hate speak in "the Indy"? Is it because Alibhai-Brown is not British as we are ? I will offer to do her job for a tenth of the wage she is getting from "The Indy".

Some years ago I went to see a movie. It was based on a novel about mercenary soldiers serving in Africa. The novelist was Freddy Forsyth who writes rip-roaring tales.
One of the mercenaries was a blond-haired, blue-eyed White man of Germanic origins. The troop of mercenaries come across little Black children. They know that if they let the children go free, they will run to the village and tell their older family. Thus a band of armed men will track them and start a firefight with the mercenaries. The success of the whole mission is dependent up[on them quietly infiltrating the HQ of their enemy.
The blond-haired, blue-eyed German mercenary kills the two little Black children. The women in the cinema let loose with a great "ooooh" of pity. It had that effect on them.
Who makes these movies which project evil stereotype images of White Germanic looking men? I have a pretty good idea but - the Race Act protects those who make this sort of film. In fact it DOUBLY protects the particular group I am thinking of.

In the ranks of the Left, and among the bleeding-heart so called liberals, McCarthyism is a dirty word. Why? The truth is, Senator Joe McCarthy was a loyal American patriot who sought to defend his country from evil Communist subversives. These evil men and women wormed their way into high offices of state only to betray America in the service of Communist Imperialism with its Death Culture.
Recently some documents were made public by the secret police in Russia. These gave lists of the names of folk who spied for Communism in America - hundreds of them! So Joe McCarthy was right all along; but the so-called liberals who defamed him are retired now, living on fat pensions which they got for betraying America by rubbishing the efforts of true patriots like Senator Joe McCarthy.

The Left have supported the policy of national self-determination for Black people, Yellow people, Brown people and Jewish people. They call it "Progressive nationalism" since it broke non-White nations away from the White West (which the left call Imperialism - the evil in their failed world view).
However, if Whites should demand national self-determination the Left will call it "racism", "White supremacist"," Nazism". They will say it is "Reactionary Nationalism" which must be put down with the utmost violence. When Germany sought national self-determination in 1930's and 1940's, a terrible war was stirred up against that nation. Sixty-one of its great cities and large towns were reduced to heaps of rubble. Twenty-six of them endured horrendous fire-storms as a consequence of 1000 bomber raids.

Why this awful hatred for us White folks? Who is at the back of it? Some students of history say that the Big bankers sought to erect an Internationalist financial system that would give them control of the world. Whose to say they are not right?
